Guidelines for Alumni, Family, and Friends

The International Studies program is academic in nature, and when space is limited instructors give preference for places on study tours to students who are enrolled for credit. In some cases participation is limited to students who are taking the course. Please contact the instructor before making definite plans. Normally non-students are assessed a $100 administrative fee, though this policy is currently under suspension.

Payments for travel costs are made directly to licensed agencies cooperating with the course instructor and the International Studies program. All participants are advised to purchase short-term major medical insurance if they are not otherwise covered. Some instructors may require participants to complete the program's Informed Consent form.

Please answer the following:

Indicate whether alumnus/na friend/family member Rutgers employee

If friend or family, give the name of the Rutgers student whom you are accompanying:

If alumnus/na, give year

Are you a U. S. Citizen? If not, a citizen of what country?

Please print this form and return it to: International Studies, Room 445 Armitage Hall, Rutgers University, Camden NJ 08102.

Note: School of Business courses may require separate application forms. Please contact the instructor.
